

It's simple to keep your children safer...

- Don't encourage your child to use a mobile or cordless phone unless absolutely essential
 - Don't let your child sleep near a cordless phone or wi-fi or mobile phone switched on
 - Don't use your mobile phone in the car with children unless you have an external aerial
 - Don't keep your mobile phone close to your baby or child – never in the back of the pushchair
 - Don't let your child carry a mobile phone switched on in a pocket.

- Encourage short calls and texting rather than calling
 - Ensure your child's mobile phone is turned off at night and as much as possible when not in use.
 - Keep cordless phone calls short
 - Replace your cordless phone with a wired phone or a mobile phone
 - Replace your wireless computer (not a standard powerless wireless)
 - Replace your digital baby monitor with a wired or digital baby monitor or a mobile phone
 - Turn off your mobile phone when children are nearby, especially in the car and at night
