

Getting advice

Consultants offer advice and help to reduce sources of radiation exposure both within and from outside the home or school. They usually undertake a survey and advise on alternative wiring, shielding and products. The WiredChild list of consultants can be found here.

WiredChild takes no payments, commissions or other benefits from any consultants.

Please note that WiredChild has not evaluated the consultants on our list and can not give any recommendation as to their suitability. Please send us your feedback .
